ARRANGEMENTS

Are Completed for Big Football Game to Be Played There.

FAIRMONT, Oct. 14.—Arrangements were completed here today at a conference between General Manager J. O. Watson of the traction company, H. A. Stansbury, manager of athletics at Wesleyan, and Carl G. Bachman, graduate manager of athletics at the university for the holding of the big state championship football game at Fairmont on Saturday, October 18 at South Side Park.

Plans were completed with the traction officials for roping off the big playing field and marking the grounds, making a regulation football field and for the parking of all the automobiles on one side of the field instead of on both sides as has been the custom formerly. Two sections of the bleachers each seating 600 were reserved for the Wesleyan and West Virginia rooting contingents and a number of policemen were detailed by the Fairmont municipal authorities to keep order to keep the crowd off the field.

Wesleyan's special cars will arrive in this city about 1 o'clock and immediately after dinner the whole crowd will proceed to the game in a body. West Virginia University's student body will arrive about the same time and will also go to the grounds on the first cars so that all their rooting squads will be together as this will no doubt be one of the features of the afternoon's doings.

The game will be called at 3 o'clock and the largest crowd that ever attended a game in West Virginia will be in attendance. Every town in the state of any importance will have representatives there and that the game will be one of the hardest fought as well as the most largely attended ever pulled off in West Virginia is almost an assured fact.

In Wettest Wales.

Rather unexpectedly the slopes of Snowdon, a Welsh mountain only 3,500 feet high, have proven one of the wettest regions of the world. The average annual rainfall of the globe is about thirty-six inches, that of tropical Cherrapongee, Assam, is 610 inches, with an extreme of 905 inches in 1891, and that of Maranham, Brazil, 227 inches. Seathwaite, a little village of the English valley of Borrowdale, has claimed the third highest record. The meteorological office, however, has reports from thirteen Welsh stations, of which Llanfylla, at an altitude of 2,500 feet, showed the greatest European rainfall—247 inches—and eleven exceeded the 145 inches of Seathwaite.

Teast Limits.

A right honorable member of parliament had the first response on the toast list at an English banquet.

He began drowsily and talked soggy politics without end.

After he had been on his feet for an hour the chairman, or toastmaster, sent a note to the man sitting next to the talker, who also was scheduled for a toast. The note read, "For heaven's sake twitch his coat-tails and tell him he has long exceeded his time limit!"

Presently a note from the man who was to talk came back to the chairman. That note read: "I am astonished at your request. If I cannot speak longer than this I refuse to speak at all."—Saturday Evening Post.

Falling From a Horse.

Knowing how to fall from a horse is an art, and it is here that a professional rider or an amateur who is in daily practice has a big advantage over one who gets on a horse's back occasionally. The one may fall as often as the other, but the professional will be uninjured, while the occasional will probably need an ambulance.
